

I Would Like To Paint.....

I would like to paint the sound of whispering children in the classroom As their pens scrape across their books in silence.

I would like to paint the shuffle of an old man limping across the bronze crispy leafed floor
As he bends over to pick up his old wooden, walking stick.

I would like to paint the birth of a roaring lion

As the father crouches around to guard the cub from predators

I would like to paint the swift sound of a bird spying on his prey

As he glides down to snatch it's food

I would like to paint the sound of a sprinting cheetahs feet pounding the ground

As it desperately runs from danger

I would like to paint the fear of a terrified gazelle desperately running for it's life

As a blood thirsty cheetah chases it down.

Shayne Soper